

Hundreds donate blood

Bangalore Beta Bureau

Bangalore: More than 120 people came together to donate blood for the service of patrons and the community of Mantri Square on Saturday. Mantri Square, India's largest shopping mall, organised a blood donation camp at the mall premises in association with the Rotary Bangalore IT Corridor and Rotary YTK blood Bank. The blood donation camp was held at the Fortis Medical Centre.

This camp was aimed to spread awareness amongst the community on the importance of blood donation and how every drop of blood that is donated contributes to save a life.

Kapil Gupta, president of Rotary Bangalore IT Corridor, said, "Timely availability of blood is an absolute necessity. And blood donation camps help in ensuring that our blood banks are well stocked and prepared to save a life in danger."

Jonathan Yach, CEO of Mantri Square, said, "We are really glad with the overwhelming response that the camp received. This small action by socially respon-
