

Way to express herself, is through dance

Meet Aditi PC, a young budding talent who has a strong passion towards classical dance and loves to express emotions through dance.

JURMOLOYA RAVA

ADITI PC is in her tender age of 12. Currently, she is in 6th standard studying in Chry Convent School, Malleshwaram. Besides studies, she has an interest towards the classical dance and she is been learning the same since the age of seven. She loves to express herself through dancing and feels that folk dance gives her a platform to express the same. Her dance Guru Bhavani Nayel teaches her classical, semi classical and folk dance of different cultures in India. Despite dance, she is also learning flute under the guidance of Guru Prabhakar. With all these, she also does anchoring in various events and debate competition.

In the year 2011 and 2012, Aditi performed in a dance drama in ISKCON temple. Also, she stood topper at the cultural fest of ISKCON in 2011. She has also performed in Chitrapur Math and in Canara Union Malleshwaram. She spends her dancing skills by teaching her fellow members in dance school.

Aditi feels that she enjoys semi classical and folk dance more as they are completely contrast from each other. She says, "I love folk and semi classical dance because in these forms, I get to learn different forms of steps. During my leisure time, I can only think of giving time to dance and I don't get tired when I am engaged in dancing." Commenting about Aditi's interest, Anupama, mother of Aditi said, "I feel proud of my daughter. I always encourage her to do her best and like to guide her in things that she likes."

Revealing her other interests, Aditi said, "I like to draw and colour. In subjects, I love Geography and Mathematics. I want to excel in these subjects. I like to play outdoor games and even like to watch television and my favourite programmes are Tarak Mehta and Doreamon."

When asked about her career plans, she replied saying, "I like to see myself as a scientist or work in geographical field as I love the subject."
