MAKE MOM FEEL SPECIAL TODAY

Here are a few ideas to woo your mumma bear on her special day.

DC CORRESPONDENT

Our mothers are our own superheroes. Whether it's taking care of us, fixing our lunches or even finding misplaced socks, she does it all and for that, she deserves the world and more. We try to make it up to her every year, on the second Sunday of May, by taking her out shopping, cleaning the house, or even breakfast in bed. Thank you's are hidden in all of our gestures today.

Whether it's about going big or small, customising gifts or buying her favourite shade of lipstick, we all do something special for her. Rasha Bashir, a graphic design freelancer from Chennai, says, "I make a lot of crazy stuff for my mom. Mostly it's paper flowers in a bottle that I jazzed up, but I still love putting in the effort."

Our mums put in Herculean strength to everything she does. Anna Mariam Ittyerah, a student of St Joseph's College, recounts tales of her and her brother's adventures every year. "We ban her from the kitchen and take over all the meals for the day. We make her all her favourite meals and clean up as well. Dinner ends with a special dessert and if we're all up for it, a movie to end the day."

However, there're so many activities we can take part in with our mums. There're multiple projects like cosmetic designing, painting, mother-child yoga classes that are endemic to this day.

Whether it's a special meal or a whole day for baking cookies and cakes, cooking with/for our mums is one memory most of us cherish. Trying a chocolate tour by JusTrufs Chocolatiers is a new age trend. Sabrina Suhail, renowned make-up artist in Bengaluru, is hosting an event for custom lipsticks. Good perfumes are a hassle to find, so why not just make them yourself?

Mantri Square Mall takes the hassle off your mum's hands with their perfume making workshop.

A day with her favourite recliner, a big tub of ice cream and her favourite TV series is Nikhila Azeez's, mother of a toddler and Recruitment Officer, recipe for a perfect day. This is the recipe followed by most mums, although there're a few who just want to relax and share gossip with their best friends over a glass of wine. Painting is one of the most relaxing forms of art and Bistro Claytopia gives mums the perfect day, filled with painting, wine and unlimited brunching.

"Our mums hold a special place in our heart and it's my opinion that we should make her feel as loved as she makes us (feel), every day. Why just one day to celebrate her? Why not do something small for her every day?" muses Anirudh Nair, a student of St Joseph's.
